From the award-winning director of The Times of Harvey Milk, Changing Our Minds is both a compelling tribute to a little known psychologist and a captivating look at gay history. The film "sums me up like nothing else," says 88-year-old Evelyn Hooker, who is responsible for providing the necessary scientific evidence that provided the impetus for the American Psychiatric Association's removal of homosexuality from its Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Psychiatric Disorders in 1973. Containing footage and photos of some of the tortuous treatments used to "cure" homosexuals, as well as clips from 1960s "educational" films touting the evils of homosexuality, Changing Our Minds reminds us of the dangers of institutionalized repression. Narrated by Patrick Stewart.

Best Documentary, 1992 San Francisco International Lesbian & Gay Film Festival

"This is a valuable educational film for the general public to understand who gays and lesbians are, the journey they've taken and the fact that scientists have said for decades now that they are not ill."
