DEARBORN

Women's and Gender Studies Program

Join us for a film screening and discussion with filmmaker

Diana Copeland

Detroit Women Speak:

A Community Film on Race, Environmental Justice, Leadership and Gender in Detroit

Tuesday, March 18

9:30-11:00 a.m.

Kochoff Hall A, University Center

"Detroit Women Speak" explores issues of gender, environmentalism, feminism, place, race and what it means to be a leader. In the film we meet fifteen women, ranging in age from 7 to 70, who all grew up in and currently live, work and play in the city of Detroit. The women discuss their trials and triumphs in leadership to defend the place they call home.

Diana Copeland, filmmaker, is the Co-Director of the East Michigan Environmental Action Council, a non-profit providing environmental justice leadership and civic engagement training to residents of Southeast Michigan.

APPROVED BY OSE APR 0 4 2014

Co-sponsored by the Women's and Gender Studies program and Women in Learning and Leadership.

For more information about the event, contact Suzanne Bergeron, Director of WGST, sbergero@umich.edu.

The University of Michigan-Dearborn does not necessarily endorse speakers' views.